
Ohio State 2015 Summer Camp Guide

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

P-12 Initiative

A World of Opportunities

Ohio State has a longstanding tradition of offering Buckeyes of all ages and abilities vibrant summer experiences from June to August. The university offers fun and engaging activities including programs in academics, arts, language, literature, medicine, music, sports, and multi-cultural among others. We've covered it all, from indoor to outdoor activities. The Ohio State 2015 Summer Camp Guide will help you find the best type of residential or day camp for your child. We've also included programs that help pre-college students transition more smoothly to a university setting.

Camp Name: African American & African Studies Residential Program

Program Description: The theme for this summer is Black Art: A Means of Creative Expression. The purpose of the program is to provide a setting for students to examine critical aspects of several historical and contemporary social movements such as the Harlem Renaissance, Civil Rights Movement, and Black Lives Matter. The course outline is divided into three parts focusing on various approaches from the visual arts, performing arts, and interactive media. First, students will explore historical movements and the way in which Black artists have been called on by political circumstances to find new language to respond to their social and cultural conditions. Second, students will conduct a research project on a current sociopolitical phenomenon (e.g. Hands Up, Don't Shoot; I Can't Breathe) that impacts the Black community and the global society, as well as examine how artists in various communities use their work to discuss or oppose injustice. Specifically, students will learn about the political process model, visual culture theory and issues of (mis)representation in the media. Students will also investigate youth activism through social media: meme culture, street art, dance and hip hop as tools of demonstration. Finally, students will complete three multimedia workshops. The workshops involve working with local artists to create a piece of art based on their research project and engage with digital media, photography, blogs, videography, graphics, and live broadcasting.

Camp Name: Pills Potions and Poisons

Program Description: The Pills, Potions, and Poisons program provides students with an overview of pharmacology and its relationship to health, disease, and society. In the field of pharmacology, scientists study the interactions between drugs and the body and then apply what they have learned to the development of new drugs. Students will learn through a variety of approaches including lecture, discussion, debate, games, laboratory visits, field trips, and hands-on experiments. On the final day of the course, students will present their findings in a showcase day. Parents and teachers are invited to attend. The course is not designed strictly for students with an interest in pharmacy. Any student with an interest in biomedical science (including careers in pharmacy, medicine, dentistry, laboratory research, etc.) is encouraged to apply.

Grade Level(s): 10th - 12th

Exceptions or Prerequisites: We strongly encourage applicants to complete either a high school-level biology or chemistry course before applying. Students must obtain a nomination from a science teacher at their school (form provided on course website)
